Violent Hate Crimes and Racial Terrorism Targets Whites in Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, PA – Over the last two years the city of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania has been a nationwide trend-setter in violent hate and bias motivated crimes targeting whites committed by blacks.

The Council of Conservative Citizens has compiled data from reported crimes in and around the city of Philadelphia that clearly demonstrate a trend in which the white population in the region is being targeted by the blacks in the city for acts of violence based solely on their race.

An extremely high threat of violence against white people in the city of Philadelphia has been identified by the Council of Conservative Citizens. It is recommended that white people avoid the city as much as possible, especially the City Center area around Market and Chestnut. [See accompanying map]

###

We documented 23 major acts of violence occurring between December 2009 and January 2011 where racial hatred appeared to be the primary motivation. Almost all victims were white, with a few Asians. Almost all perpetrators were black, with a few Latinos. Many of the incidents are large scale acts of street terrorism involving multiple victims. Philadelphia City Center, particularly on Market and Chestnut Streets near City Hall, is a major hot spot for racially motivated violence against white people.
